Top.Host offers the possibility to manage your emails through webmail using Horde or Roundcube with all web hosting plans. You can make a choice in Plesk.

This practically means you don't necessarily have to be on your computer to be able to see your emails. You can access them from anywhere as long as you have an internet connection.

In order to connect to your webmail service, take the following steps:

1. Enter webmail.top.host in your browser (replace top.host with your own domain name) and press enter.
2. You will be asked to login with your full email as your username and the password that you chose when creating your account in Plesk.
3. Below, you can see your email's Home Page according to the examples from step 1 and 2.

The screenshot shows a web browser window with the address bar displaying 'webmail.top.host/login.php'. The page content is a login form for a webmail interface. The form includes the following elements:

- Username: A text input field containing 'info@top.host'.
- Password: A text input field with masked characters (dots).
- Mode: A dropdown menu currently set to 'Automatic'.
- Language: A dropdown menu currently set to 'English (American)'.
- Log in: A button to submit the login information.

The browser's color bar at the top shows a variety of color swatches, and the page background is a light gray.
